

Our Brownsville Correspondence.
BROWNSVILLE, ON THE RIO GRANDE

The fortunes of the insurgents, or revolutionists, in the adjoining Mexican territory, have undergone a serious change since my last to the States, and we have now on this side of the river all the leaders of the recent outbreaks, again preparing, under brighter hopes and better auspices, to renew the attack and again make a desperate effort to drive the Dictator's troops out of the country between the Sierra Madre and the Gulf of Mexico.

By the Nautilus, which will be due here next Sunday from New Orleans, I will send you a brief account of the arrest of the leaders of the late revolutionary movement, and of the United States information acquired as to the whereabouts of the fugitives. It is in this place, so also whatever other little items of news I may be able to communicate.

We have no news from the upper Rio Grande, and all are anxiously looking for a sudden change of affairs among the "magnanimous" Mexicans who are endeavoring to establish a republic in the mountains of Chihuahua. On the west side of the river cannot count those many lawless, and the present bunglers in the science of government in Mexico, will have to turn about on the helm to abler pilots.

I have unintentionally written longer notes than

One that his wife and two children of William C. Laughlin, of Gettysburg, Pa., were among the killed. Within a few days news has been received of the death of Mr. Laughlin himself and his mother, Catharine Laughlin. His niece, Mary, the only one left of the party, a bright little girl of some six or seven years of age, is also badly accident, and at last accounts was not expected to survive. Mr. Laughlin was on his way to Iowa, where he had intended to purchase a property and commence business.

are themselves ready to make oath to the truthfulness of Mr. Hall's statement. On the evidence of officer Hall, Justice Hyde early this morning issued a warrant for the arrest of Justice Gogan. The officer at first searched his house without being able to find him; but soon after he voluntarily surrendered himself to Justice Hyde, and was held to bail in $10,000. Such conduct on the part of a public officer will raise the serious question of the public service, as well as the courts of justice, unless the subject of it can show a better reason for his course than is now apparent.—New York Advertiser, Nov. 23.

was designed to restrict all knowledge of it to a certain circle; but it has gone farther than was at first intended, and the actors in it are reaping the fruit of their own folly.—Philadelphia Bulletin, Nov. 20.

It is hardly possible that the occupants of the boat were taken by some outward bound vessel.—Boston Journal, Nov. 20.

New County.—It is proposed to make Rochester county by itself, setting off all the towns of Monroe county from the city.
